

One ROM, 90 million years of history

The Grid, March 12, 2014 - <http://www.thegridto.com/city/places/one-rom-90-million-years-of-history/>

The Royal Ontario Museum earned its regal title when it opened on March 19, 1914: The ceremony was attended by Governor-General the Duke of Connaught, Queen Victoria's son. While its ambitions have occasionally overextended its means, the century-old institution has taught generations of Torontonians about the wonders of history and the natural world. Here's a selected timeline of some of its prized acquisitions.